Man and World

Contents of Volume 22 1989

Volume 22, No. 1

B.E. Babich, From Nietzsche's artist to Heidegger's world: The post-aesthetic perspective 3

B. Dauenhauer, Ideology, utopia, and responsible politics 25

J. v.d. Hengel, P. O'Grady and P. Rigby, Cognitive linguistic psychology and hermeneutics 43

T. Javanovski, Toward the animation of Nietzsche's Übermensch 71

H. Lenk, Sociomorphic arguments for a moral God: Kant's second and third moral arguments for the postulate of God's existence 97

D. Lories, Nous avons l'art pour vivre dans le vérité* 113

E.W. Orth, Sozialwissenschaften zwischen Metaphysik und Beschreibung: Möglichkeiten und Grenzen der Phänomenologie bei der Bestimming des Menschen 133

*Republished; incomplete in preceding issue

Volume 22, No. 2

M. Coueslant Hornyansky, The nature of Sartre's ethics: A reconciliation of its ideal and positive elements 151

D.B. Greene, "Where am I in the story? Reflections on the reader's location and the encounter with fictive people" 161

G. Heffernan, In the beginning was the logos: Hermeneutical remarks on the starting-point of Edmund Husserl's Formal and transcendental Logic 185

D. Jacquette, On the objects' independence from thought, by Ernst Maly Translation and commentary 215

T. Rockmore, Modernity and reason: Habermas and Hegel 233

J. Mitscherling, Philosophical hermeneutics and "The Tradition" 247

J. Sallis on John D. Caputo, Radical hermeneutics: Repetition, deconstruction, and the hermeneutic project 251

J.D. Caputo, Towards an American pragrammatology: A response to Prof. Sallis 257

J. Sallis, Moving on: Rejoinder 261

Book review

D. Kolb, The critique of pure modernity (M.J. DeNys) 263

Volume 22, No. 3

Z. Adamczewski, Time beyond power 271

R. Bruzina, Solitude and community in the work of philosophy: Husserl and Fink, 1928–1938 287

M.J. Larrabee, Genesis, motivation, and historical connections 315

K. Wider, Through the looking glass: Sartre on knowledge and the pre-reflective cogito 329

Book reviews

W. Marx, Gibt es auf Erden ein Maß?: Grundbestimmungen einer nichtmetaphysischen Ethik. [Is there a measure on earth? Foundation for a nonmetaphysical ethics]. Ethos und Lebenswelt: Mit-leidenkönnen als Maß (J. Bailiff) 345

D. Judovits, Subjectivity and representation in Descartes: The origins of modernity (C. Page) 358

M. Haar, Le chant de la terre (D.F. Krell) 368

Books received 375

Volume 22, No. 4

W.W. Fuchs, Post-modernism is not a scepticism 393

D.E. Klemm, Levina's phenomenology of the Other and language as the Other of phenomenology 403

M. Miles, Heidegger and the question of humanism 427

G. Parkes, A cast of many: Nietzsche and depth-psychological pluralism 453

G.A. van Peursen, Discovery as the context of any scientific justification 471

H. Seigfried, Nietzsche's radical experimentalism 485

Book review

C.O. Schrag, Communicative praxis and the space of subjectivity (F.M. Kirkland) 503

Contents of Volume 22 511